

Tradition Group commits to offsetting Justin Rose's carbon emissions

Tradition Group is pleased to announce their intention to continue the sponsorship of Justin Rose, currently Europe's No. 1 golfer, in 2008. In order to congratulate Justin on his success in 2007, TFS Energy, a subsidiary of the Tradition Group, has made a commitment to offset all carbon emissions that Justin and his team will generate through the course of 2008 from air travel and ground transportation.

TFS Energy will do this by sourcing and purchasing suitable carbon credits, which are generated by projects developed to reduce the emission of greenhouse gases into the atmosphere. These projects also contribute to the sustainable development of the host country by creating jobs, improving workers' health and safety standards, developing reliable energy sources and encouraging the use of renewable energy.

Justin Rose is one of the first European Tour golfers to officially off-set his carbon emissions generated by air travel and ground transportation. He will be visiting Tradition's offices on Friday 21st December, where he will be presented with the gift.

David Pinchin, Tradition Group Chief Operating Officer says, "We are delighted to present Justin with our unique and innovative gift of carbon offsets to congratulate him on his stunning performance this year. We are extremely pleased that we are able to help Justin in his ongoing commitment to the environment and wish him every success for 2008."
